

Umbrellas, The

"June, Summer, Rose"

Visit "June, Summer, Rose" on MotoLyrics.com

I once knew a girl named June,
And one July, she waved goodbye.
I remember finding her curled up on a boxspring,
And she said, "I'm gonna make mistakes, I just hope you notice."

I once spoke to a girl named Summer,
And one fall, she stood so tall.
She found some confidence and some wings, and she flew away.
She sang, "You can't hold me down any longer."
What a beautiful song it was.

I once loved a girl named Rose,
And one sunny day, she began to wither.
So she took a dip in the pool, felt restored.
She said, "I hate these thorns."
So she cried, "One day I'll be beautiful. And one day you'll love me."

But I already do.

Visit Umbrellas, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.