This has all been pretended
This will lead me to my end
This has never been truly real
This is too much to deal with!

This life I live, the Life I lead
This face I see, is not me
I live a lie in front of you
But I see the same view you do
...I live this lie in front of you
And tell you want you want to hear
I see you there and then I
I... I just... I just disappear

This has all been pretended
A lie to lead me to my end
This was never truly real
God it's just too much to deal with!

But things have changed
The past few years
I've seen the smoke
And I've seen it clear
I've seen the path to take
No more lies... no more fake

This was all pretended
Just a lie to lead me to an end
This has brought about a brighter day
Now I know what I should say

To you...

I do not know where my life will go
But never again will I put on a show
So tonight I leave and say goodbye
I'll give another try
I'm gone for once and gone for good
I'm doing now what I never could

I never could...

I never could...
What I never thought I could
