The sun still shines
Light through dirty windows
It's just a different view
The outside's about as clear as my memories of you
The days when I
Was outside lookin' in
Never imagined this
Never thought i'd know
What its like without you

And still I wait
So pa-tient-ly
For you to come
Come back to me
And shine
Some light on my life
All its takes is
To throw a stone
And lemme know
That you're coming home

I'm so ashamed
Of all the things I said to you
It hurts inside
When I cry alone
I know I've lied
Ive died a thousand times
And still wait on this windowpane
Watching the drops of rain
They remind me of the day when
You said goodbye
Will I
Ever
See
You
A-gain
And then I start to pray

So pa-tient-ly
For you to come
Come back to me

And shine~
Some light in my life
All it takes is to throw a stone
And lemme know
That you're coming home

Throw a stone and break the glass
That seperates you from me
Throw it in my face that I was wrong
I'll show you how it feels
I'll take the blame,
Break down and bear the shame
I'll give you all of me
Just lemme know
That you're coming home
Throw a stone
