

Vacancy, The "Blue Eyes"

Sat and watched the leaves
They turned from green to brown and back
Three hundred and sixty-five days
Since I've seen your face

I try so hard to forget every little thing about you
But those blue eyes
They still haunt me at night

Sleep is becoming my best friend
I close my eyes and the world ends
When you and I are holding hands my nightmare ends

I try so hard to forget every little thing about you
But those blue eyes
They still haunt me at night

I will always love you (I will always love you)
I will always love you (I will always love you)
