The sidewalk is calling my name
She begs for me to walk on her again
So many nights spent wandering these streets
Five years ago, it's not the same
Not the same anymore

We sat upon the roof under a full moon
I wish I would have thought back then
To take a picture of you friend
I never thought I'd lose you

This is the first time
I've walked these streets alone without you by my side
This is the last time you'll see me come round here
There's just no need to do this anymore

We sat upon the roof under a full moon
I wish I would have thought back then
To take a picture of you friend
I never thought I'd lose you

They say that nothing lasts forever
What about those times we shared together?

We sat upon the roof under a full moon
I wish I would have thought back then
To take a picture of you friend
I never thought I'd lose you
I'd lose you
