

2*sweet

"All One Hundred Of Us Are Enlightenment"

Visit "All One Hundred Of Us Are Enlightenment" on MotoLyrics.com

Everybody's singing out the demons in their heads
And they're singing, "who knew that love was so alone?"
And they're singing, "who knew that love was so
alone?"

I found your card in late December, now don't you remember when I was your everything?
It's like you didn't have to try
I thought my eyes would never dry.
I swear the rain that summer could have drowned the sun.
I swear the rain that summer drowned the sun.

This song reminds me of way back when, never thinking of when that was then.

And they're singing, "who knew that love was so
alone?"
And we're singing, "who knew that love was so alone?"

I'm slowly swallowing the sun and softly stuttering my speech, my empty eyes cannot disguise the nothingness they see.
I'm losing sleep

Visit 2*sweet page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.