

Veils, The

"The Valleys Of New Orleans"

Visit "The Valleys Of New Orleans" on MotoLyrics.com

Someday the walls will tremble with terrible flames
here
Till the mouth of some hurricane sweeps them away
And If I had either love or fortune I'd shed them both
here
But those cards are so rarely played I've hid them away

The valleys of New Orleans
The valleys of New Orleans

Stanley, I've heard you laughing your way around here
There's a game that I wish to play, so slow down
I found another in Sidney's pocket, she knows my name
She says she wants to drive all night in the dark through all

The valleys of New Orleans
The valleys of New Orleans

Sidney says God is watching so don't fear now
She says that he's bound to come, given time
Her mouth is the taste of sea salt and saddened rum
She speaks in a vagrant language I'd heard once in a film about

The valleys of New Orleans
The valleys of New Orleans
The valleys of New Orleans
The valleys of New Orleans

Visit Veils, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.