(John Jarvis, Eric Kaz)

I know you've run out of time for a fool like me.

It's all over now, you can't disguise,

All these constant good-byes.

I can't see, but I close my eyes and I walk away.

And try not to hear the words you say,

But I can't seem to turn my heart away.

There's a feeling out tonight, you're beside me everywhere.

Anyone would say, "It's over," but I just don't seem to care,

'Cause I could never turn my heart away,

I just can't seem to turn my heart away.

I can hear the music play, well I'm the only one who knows.

Maybe I'm a fool for listenin', but it takes me where it goes,

'Cause I can never turn my heart away,

I just can't seem to turn my heart away.

Something inside me needs to know

I can live to love again.

What is now has always been.

I need to let you know.

But I just can't turn away, and I can't stop loving you.

I can feel the end is near, but I can't admit it's true,

'Cause I could never turn my heart away,

I just can't seem to turn my heart away.

You go... I'll stay,

'Cause I just can't seem to turn my heart away.
