[verse 1]

Sleepy-eyed baby let me sweep you away
Minneapolis looks shiny from the side of this night sky airplane
I can't need you enough
Broken heart stories from a midwest town
I said that I was leaving there's no stopping me now
I've replayed it
And I've made up my mind
City, city, catch me down a one way street
Coffee shop honey won't you sing it to me?
I'm waiting
And I'm nearly asleep

[chorus]

We'll both get ready for the final slope
I love you, I love you
Because we know that we're never gonna make it home
And we'll say, and we'll say
We'll be sunshine strangers in the tidal throes
I love you, I love you
Building ghost towns wishing for a better world
And we'll say, and we'll say

[verse 2]

Silver sets softly like a midwest smile
Things are getting better, I've been gone for awhile
And I'm changing
I can miss you enough
Winter time baby on a basement stay
I could never love you ever like I did that day
I'm still running
And I'm happy alone
Traffic lights bouncing off the high-rise glass
Kiss me like you mean it cause these seconds can last [bridge]

All these pages ripped and scattered on the floor like the little floaty dandelions racing for the shore and notes in bottles that we set into the sea that were taken by the breeze about the lovers
