"Where Are You Now?"

I see your face, only in a bleaching picture where the sun has shown the years gone bye I walk alone, up and down familiar streets where I turn around before I sigh it makes me wonder, where have the years taken you?
I find myself wanting to do the things we do because you were my fun you were my number one and it makes me wonder

hand in hand together we would stand
where are you now?
I heard your voice when I opened an old letter that same old spark went off inside imagining you with me walking down that same blue coastline you always found that spark in my life....where are you now?
