I was pushed and shoved down the street in a bus
fume haze
They're building for a new day
What will become of you and me
My love

I want to shout from the roof and all these things they just don't do
Will they wait for me and you
Gonna leave us both behind
Oh girl

She said, "Man I don't want to play around with words,
I just want to lay with you.
I can't solve the problems in this world
It's breaking my brain in two."

Hey baby don't you know
Our dreams they are the same
I'm waiting on you
I want you for your time
They promised you a lie
I swear it isn't true

Lately I can see your skirt
Cause we're growing up
Then if you changed your hair
You'd be good enough
Kids I used to know that died
Now they're not around
I wonder what they think of life
When they're looking down

Want to walk to your door
So I head from the store
And I ring on your bell
And I see that you're home
So I wait for a while
And I look to the sky
But nobody comes

Back on my feet
I went straight to the place
Where we were when you said
All the words that you meant
For me then
Do you still feel them now?
Well I can't see how you do
But I hope that it's so

She said, "Well I know you and I we're getting high,
But it don't have to be this way.
Baby I don't want to say goodbye,
But it's all that I have to say."

Hey baby don't you know
Our dreams they are the same
I'm waiting on you
I want you for your time

Lately I can see your skirt
Cause you're growing up
Maybe if you changed your hair
You'd be good enough
The kids I used to know they died
Well they're not around
