Turn out the lights and close the door
You don't even know what we are fighting for
It's another little thing I can't ignore
It's alright
It's alright now

Well you're so complicated
A twisted tangled emotional puree
And sometimes you're just so stubborn
And I know I'll never change

Because I said forever
And like a lightswitch my night switched to a day
But sometimes I'm just not certain
That I'll make it through the day

So turn out the lights and close the door
You don't even know what we're fighting for
It's another little thing I can't ignore
It's alright
It's alright now

I just don't understand it
Why we pick on each other when we are both so much the same
My oil painting of an onion with your layers on display
So....

Turn out the lights and close the door
You don't even know what we are fighting for
It's another little thing I can't ignore
It's alright
It's alright now
It's always like you're keeping score
No matter what we are fighting for
So turn out the lights and close the door
It's alright
It's alright now

I'm sorry
So sorry for hiding

For hiding from you and from me
Stop fooling yourself
Cause you can't change me
I've been fooling myself
Cause I'm not who you want me to be

So turn out the lights and close the door
You don't even know what we are fighting for
It's another little thing I can't ignore
But you aggravate me
It's always like you're keeping score
No matter what we are fighting for
So turn out the lights and close the door
It's alright
It's alright now

So sorry
So sorry you're fooling
So sorry you're fooling yourself
I'm sorry
So sorry you're fooling

It's alright
It's alright now
