Even as I sit here
With my future so near...
Still I wonder what makes me special in their eyes
But they don't know me
And I wish that they'd see
They just want a ticket
Or a way to a better life

What makes you think you can drag me down
Its not just you I'm not around

And it perplexes me that you fail to see
You've turned out to be just a psycho
And it starts with a kiss
Cause I couldn't resist
But what brought it to this
I don't know now

It's the same old story
Cause they've all told me
They have all been used and abused and mistreated for all of their lives
Did I put to much in
Am I more than a friend?
I'm not a solution or your excuse or an alibi

I can't believe that I let it go on this long
There is a thin line between right and wrong

And it perplexes me that you fail to see
You've turned out to be just a psycho
And it starts with a kiss
Cause I couldn't resist
But what brought it to this
I don't know now
Will your feet hit the ground?

What could you possibly expect out of me
When you know I only want one thing
Still you let me get it
And then you cry about being alone

I just wish I didn't know

I can't believe that we let it go on this long
Cause you can't even tell between right and wrong
Wrong

And it perplexes me that you fail to see
You've turned out to be just a psycho
And it starts with a kiss
I couldn't resist
But what brought it to this
I don't know

And it's beyond me that you just can't see
You've turned out to be such a psycho
But it's come to this and I won't reminisce
What brought it to this I don't know
She's a psycho
And I don't care
If your feet hit the ground
