I'm stuck in, the same old place
I'm jaded, just one big basket case
Just like in 1968 I asked you on a date It's not too bad but it's too late, you chose your fault we made mistakes

Why do you have to lie, when you're with some other guy
I wonder if it would've been me, would I have made it through the night
Maybe I was at the wrong place, at the wrong fucking
time
Would someone get me to the right place, are you even supposed to be mine?

So let's jump to present day, oh I wish I would've stayed But still nothing have changed, cause you still want me to go away
Maybe I should of talked to you more, maybe I wouldn't look like such a bore Maybe I would have screwed things up, alone I'll go home and shut the door

Why do you have to lie, when you're with some other
guy
through the night
Maybe I was at the wrong place, at the wrong fucking
Would someone get me to the right place, are you even
supposed to be mine?

She's taken, forsaken Don't misinterpret I don't want to be mistaken
I quit making I quit shaking Cause I know in the end you're just faking Sympathetic, pathetic
Don't have to hide it, off your face I just read it Don't sweat it, I get it I'm bamboozled so just forget it
