Burned

Hey your fate was sealed
How you chose to live your life was real
While you played with fire
Unaware that you crossed the fine line
Time waits for no one
When the pain that you feel
Leaves you nowhere to run

You pushed the button on the bomb today
Took something special and you threw it away
No time to turn back cause the damage is done
You're bound to burn out if you reach for the sun

No one felt your pain
While you hid your tears that fell like rain
Keeping to yourself
While the world that's around you sits on a shelf
Trying not to break
From the life that you lead
Taking all you could take

You pushed the button on the bomb today
Took something special and you threw it away
No time to turn back cause the damage is done
You're bound to burn out if you reach for the sun

If there's a God above us
Will He be there by your side?
When you give back the life you're given
Cause your spirit for living has died

You pushed the button on the bomb today
Took something special and you threw it away
No time to turn back cause the damage is done
You're bound to burn out if you reach for the sun

Hey your fate was sealed
How you chose to live your life was real
