Something by the fireside flickers in the blue flame Reflections of the midnight sky softly whispers your name

Your memory is calling to me
Though the days we had are gone
A song in my soul wherever I go It lives on and on and on

I still here it hear it in my head now singing
I still here it here it in my head now singing

Driving in the morning light as I look out the window It's as though you're by my side when I feel the wind blow

Your memory is calling to me
Though I'm left to dance alone Wherever I go I'm hearing your song It echoes on and on and on

I still here it hear it in my head now singing, you're in my head
I still here it here it in my head now singing, all that you
said
You feel so near me everyting you said still ringing

It's not enough to feel you near I want you hear with me I wish that you were somewhere I could be

I still here it hear it in my head now singing, you're in
my head
I still here it here it in my head now singing, all that you
said
Where do I go from here?
'Cause you're never going to fade away
