I want to know
To where and which the hours flow
A thousand notes
Creates a chord that just explodes
It goes to show
That power hides within our souls
But I don't know
Why we're all trapped inside our bones

What do you say then?
To the man who has never had a voice
Ignite the delayed sin
And let our broken love rejoice

I've got to figure it out
Your love is crushing my doubt

I cannot see
This broken life a simile
For you and me
So get a grip and just believe

I will not sing, I will not align with
All of those things ceased to be defined with
I will not sing I will not deny you
