People get misguided
And I am intertwined
Feel me shake from all the give and take
I'm inching closer to the line
We all get fixated on what we cannot change
Shed all of these puerile flaws
Embrace your own decay

Such a Grey Divide
There is a bigger picture than what's in your head
By and by we give in, we gotta give in
Such a Grey Divide

In need of medication
To clear our shaded eyes
So immersed in our little worlds
What is the message in your lies?
I can't say I'm different
Despite my own disguise
Cause I bought you, but you bought me too
So we might as well be blind

In Such a Grey Divide
There is a bigger picture than what's in your head
But by and by we give in, we gotta give in
Such a Grey Divide
There is a bigger picture than what's in your head
Do you justify
The means to an end

You wanna tear me up, I will break you down all day

People get misguided, but so few wonder why
This empty love is just not enough
Yet they're still all standing by

In Such a Grey Divide
There is a bigger picture than what's in your head
But by and by we give in, we gotta give in
Such a Grey Divide
There is a bigger picture than what's in your head

Do you justify, The means to an end
