You know reactions speak louder than words
I thought we were past that, forget what you heard
Pay no attention, better to shut out the lights
Than to find yourself at home all alone thinking of me at night

Problems won't disappear
When I look you in the eye something isn't right
Problems will interfere
And I don't think we'll survive
A fall from up so high

My tears drop waiting for the fallout
(This must be the way down)
And it won't stop everything's a blur now
(This must be the way down)
Everything was bound to change
Now I know I could've saved us
(This must be the way down)

Everything was perfect 'til the train went right off the rail
Like we were passed out asleep at the wheel
When you know you've lost it, there's no one in control
And you will find yourself too high, better try just letting it go

Problems won't disappear
When I look you in the eye something isn't right
Problems will interfere
And I don't think we'll survive
A fall from up so high

My tears drop waiting for the fallout
(This must be the way down)
And it won't stop everything's a blur now
(This must be the way down)
Everything was bound to change
Now I know I could've saved us
(This must be the way down)

And now that the smoke is gone
I can see that I'm all alone
Forever has been long enough
I need you to come back home
And now that the smoke is gone
I can see that I'm all alone
Forever has been long enough

My tears drop waiting for the fallout
(This must be the way down)
And it won't stop everything's a blur now
(This must be the way down)
Everything was bound to change
Now I know I could've saved us
(This must be the way down)
