I'm sitting face down looking through the scented side of a sunset,
So let it rewind, let it linger, be kind, don't be moving on yet,
Cause when you're far away, I can hear you, and when the lights fade, I can see you

You tell me that you're leaving tonight, but can't you see the weather?
Forever is a long time, long time, so don't say that it's forever.

I see you everytime that I'm down,
I see you even when you're not around,
I see you now, I see you now,
I see you on your way out of town,
I see you but you're fading now,
I see you now, I see you now

I'm sliding headfirst into the sunny side of a cloudy day,
My glass is half full baby, so don't be hasty, cause I'm here to stay,
Cause it's a long drive and it's getting late, and if you leave me now, I think my heart might break

I see you everytime that I'm down,
I see you even when you're not around,
I see you now, I see you now,
I see you on your way out of town,
I see you but you're fading now,
I see you now, I see you now

Oh, it's breaking my heart as I stop to wonder, Oh, you say it's a lie, but I say it's true
Oh, maybe in time I can find another, Oh, but now all that I see is you...

I see you everytime that I'm down,
I see you even when you're not around,
I see you now, I see you now,

I see you on your way out of town,
I see you but you're fading now,
I see you now, I see you now
