

Window View

"Where I Find My Strength"

Visit "Where I Find My Strength" on MotoLyrics.com

Wake up catch the bus read the book start another lonely day without a look inside you choke it down you wanna close your eyes and take a breath but your heart is beating, beating you to death inside you'll wearing out and youve gone on to long on like this and your heart's beating out of your chest let your love break me take this splinter from my side cause i cant wage this war against myself no more let your love trip me so i can fall into embrace cause in your arms is where i'll find my strength work you to the bone, about to drop and the pressure's building up, about to pop inside you're breaking down check it off the list and now its done but your list is growing on and on and never ends and you want out and youre tired of this cold and lonely road where the soles of your shoes show the state of your soul.

let your love break me take this splinter from my side
cause i cant wage this war against myself no more
let your love trip me so i can fall into embrace
cause in your arms is where i'll find my strength

dont trade the truth in for lies because then you'll always be right to yourself you'll be the only god you need dont trade the truth in for lies cause its just a beautiful disguise for the ugliness that hides underneath (that hides underneath x4)

Visit Window View page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
