Well the ocean never forgets it's song
To the waves longing to belong.
And the moon never forgets the tide,
In the waves her gleaming palace hides.

And the sea as deep as her eyes,
By the shore the sound of her cries.

How the sea cries for the shore,
To see her lovers eyes once more,
To a body longing to belong,
from the palace she rose to be born.

And the sea as deep as her eyes,
And the moon never forgets the tide,
To the waves longing to belong...
And the ocean never forgets it's song...
And the ocean never forgets it's song...
The ocean never forgets it's song...
