"Colors"

Theres lack of air that has stopped me from breathing
Ill hold my breath till the bitter end
Theres no more light as the darkness surrounds me
Ill close my eyes and trust that I find my way
This dream is becoming real
As the color brings to life
A picture that was black and white
So many sounds that I cant hear the screaming
Of every voice that is in my head
They tried to tell me theres something I'm missing
Open my eyes and see what they have to say
This dream is becoming real
As the color brings to life
A picture that was black and white
Will finally reveal so many complications
That have stood in the way of my aspirations
I can see so clearly now
I can hear them tell me to always
Paint the picture with the blood of my ambition
Keep on dreaming
Keep believing your day will come
