Keep believing in who we are
The pressures building
But we still stand our ground
Keeping composure as it all caves in
We wont give up on this chance to become Everything within our minds can come to life
If we can just survive this nightmare
Will never end without a new beginning
No we will not back down
All challenges we face will fade away
Cause our time is coming
One step away from having everything fall into its place
This battle will be won
If we can just wake up and take on
The struggles that lie within our hearts
And hold us down
Now, now is our chance, our chance to become Everything thats in our minds
Can come to life
If we can just survive
This nightmare will surely end
With this new beginning
We will not back down All challenges we face will fade away
Cause our time is coming
All challenges we face will fade away Our time is coming
One step away from having everything
This battle will be won
If we can just wake up and take on
The struggles that lie within our hearts
And hold us down.
