You had every chance to
Show me that you cared
But you chose to let go
Because you were scared
You decided to forget how far that we've come
Now the sutures of our love have come undone
You are a runaway
There are mistakes that you've made
That must be brought to attention
You took for granted
The little things I did
To get your love and affection
Please tell me the reason
Why you closed your eyes
Cause I wanted to show you
How hard that I've tried
To keep us from reaching
This place in our life
We shared a common dream
But you turned your back on me
Letting me go
You're letting me go
So open your eyes before you leave
You may be surprised at what you see
One day you'll look back and understand
There's so much we could have done
To mend this back together
But you're a runaway
And those mistakes that you've made
They must be brought to attention
You took for granted
The little things I did
And this was your misconception
The damage is done, you runaway.
