How bad Ive wanted
To feel like they do
Up in that spot light
With nothing left to prove
Some say Im jaded
I think Ive found
A way to make you move
The way I want you to
(Break through these walls, these walls that surround me)
I have questioned (Break through these walls, these walls that are closing in)
Who I am(Break through these walls, these walls that confine me)
So much time has passed (Break through these walls, these walls will be coming down)
Since I began
How long Ive waited
To see what they see
A million faces
All staring back at me
I think Ill make it
Ill show you how
I want to make you move
The way I want you to
(Break through these walls, these walls that surround me)
I have questioned (Break through these walls, these walls that are closing in)
Who I am(Break through these walls, these walls that confine me)
So much time has passed (Break through these walls, these walls will be coming down)
Since I began
I think I have found a way to get to
That place where I belong
I think I will see the day when sacrifices made
Will all pay off
(Break through these walls, give them your all, Just know that youre made for this)
I have questioned, who I am

So much time has passed,
Since I began
Take a look at yourself,
And remember who you are.
