I woke up screaming, "how the hell am I to breathe without you here?"

We live in lies, we speak in stereo
But the signal's never clear

Every song that we sang will remind me to breathe
Every time that we ran to sleep out on the street
I never thought we would get this far, you know it
Still keep this board in check for the moment

Give it up, just leave and walk away
This can't be the only thing that keeps me singing
Then when you said

I woke up in my clothes, can't remember last night
Dreaming all the lonely teardrops
And I hope you never go out without a bang
18 years broken, meant for the hopeless
What's a star before its moment
So here's a toast for every kid
Who lives for every night, not the morning after it

Ocala speaks, I hear her words but it's so far away from home

I don't need eyes to see the things you built or how you watch them fall

The stains on my shirt from the waste of your words
You don't get it, you fake it, the records still skipping
I never thought we would get this far you know it
Still keep this board in check

I woke up in my clothes, can't remember last night
Dreaming all the lonely teardrops
And I hope you never go out without a bang
18 years broken, meant for the hopeless
What's a star before its moment?
So here's a toast for every kid
Who lives for every night, not the morning after it

And I woke up freezing sick from the noise
Can't find a reason, have no voice

And I found the great in the all your good
I woke up bleeding on the floor
And my throat was torn off
From drinks, to my touch
With my luck, I'm going nowhere fast
But that's fast enough for us

I woke up in my clothes, can't remember last night
Dreaming all the lonely teardrops
And I hope you never go out without a bang
18 years broken, meant for the hopeless
What's a star before its moment
So here's a toast for every kid
Who lives for every night, not the morning after it

Every night, not the morning after it
Every night, not the morning after it
Every night, not the morning after it
Every night, not the morning after it
Ha Ha Ha
