A lonely man he was
With no passion for this life
He'd read endlessly for a cause
But he failed to see the light

With countless stories on his television
He couldnt tell the truth from tales
While reading paragraphs of bloodied terror
Anxiety inside would swell

The inevitable, is it real?
The inevitable, is it real?

Incarcerated to his little book of lies
With what else is there to have faith in
When all the faith in this world dies

With all the chaos on the television
He didnt want his life to fail
Anxiety is all your selling us
While damning this whole world to hell

The inevitable, is it real?
The inevitable, is it real?

Co-operate with those in power or receive a bomb
Theyll follow through with their solution for the weak Fear creates the problems that our helpless have to fight
You take away our rights
Your fear is our god

The torture, the inhumanity and murder. its de-sensitising the way we see
The chaos, the silence and sickening violence
Weve seen it all before, will our leaders understand?

Your words are transparent
Dont feed us lies
The inevitable, is it real?

Dont feed us lies
The inevitable, is it real?
Dont feed us lies
