"Speak Slow"

You've found a way to this other realm Another world that you're running from I lay awake with you in my head
Picturing something you never said

She found a peace another way
It's a miracle to generate
She likes to please and then away
It's all that I can take

One shot to the head, take it instead of coming back down, never found the comfort of the ground
You poison my love behind its promises

Speak slow so i hear you endlessly
Let go, so you fall right back to me

She found a peace another way
It's a miracle to generate
She likes to please and then away
It's all that I can take

One shot to the head, take it instead
of coming back down, never found the comfort of the
You poison my love behind its promises
