"Hey commander, can you unplug me?
Just for a minute, I need some privacy."
Headset off and stretch her neck out
Down the rocks to her head's safe house

Yeah I remember it all
Bleed and shout out my calls
The air was so dusty
Her armor getting rusty
She found thoughts she never had
Her young ones were just as bad
She winced out her weapon

Hole in her heart, feel like a lady
Fingers apart, cold, rugged and waiting
"I can't believe it, Jim, how did you know where to find me?"
I kept the feelings in and really thought it had cost me."
Drops in her goggles aren't of love
Something's really wrong and it feels awful
Even though her body's back to normal
She once was a villain and it's hiding in her soul

I don't want to know what she did
She is not who I am
At least that's what I thought
Now I'm second guessing
I can't put my gun down
My suit's getting heavy
Something wants to be released
Something dark inside me
Dark familiarity --
(Something dark inside me, dark familiarity) X3

She opened her eyes and watched the ruins
And thought of her life and love to lose
She shook out her lenses, they'd want her back soon
The moments alone becoming scarce and few
Sure she could fight but she's getting visions
Deeds that were unspeakable and personally did
She couldn't pose a threat to the ghost like this

He rescued her once, now it's her turn to save him

Yeah I remember it all
Bleed and shout out my calls
The air was so dusty
Her armor getting rusty
She found thoughts she never had
Her young ones were just as bad
She winced out her weapon

I don't want to know what she did
She is not who I am
At least that's what I thought
Now I'm second guessing
I can't put my gun down
My suit's getting heavy
Something wants to be released
Dark familiarity --
(Something dark inside me, dark familiarity)

Drops in her goggles aren't of love
Something's really wrong and it feels awful
My body's back to normal
