Messenger of love where have you gone?
And where are you hiding from us?
I'm afraid you've forgotten us and abandoned us
And swore not to return
So long as the love between us is lost
And you watered us from its spring
In the name of love, in the name of the depths
And freest desires
You must find us and come back to us
The silence persists while our songs speak

Messenger of love your absence has lasted too long this time
And the lover's hearts are all sleepless when you are away
New feelings do not move them
And blossoms do not sprout in them
That open with perfume and aroma
Tunis is that which has become strange

I'm lost in the night without a moon
Oh, the world of lovers is painful
The leaves have shriveled
Where are those who are melting in the night of love?
Where are those who are melting in the fire of separation?
In the name of love, in the name of desire
Come on messenger of love we miss you
Oh messenger of love
