"Gates Of Dawn"

You're numb from the outside
You're crying out to the brightest star alive
Your skin is trying to burn itself
Trying to gauge the pain
To tell the mud from the rain

Been sitting waiting for the sign
Feeling just a little trapped inside
So, feel low, breathe and flow, won't be no more

Show me the way to the gates of dawn
And we'll find a place you call home
Show me the way to the gates of dawn
And we'll find a place you call home

The wind is cold, in my mind
It's frozen and it's numb, but is it kind
It takes me a while, if ever I may find
My innocence
Thought I'd traded it for
For a moment,
Just one moment

Show me the way to the gates of dawn
And we'll find a place you call home
Colours spin, all turn to white
Close your eyes, try and touch the night
Each moment, pass you by
Save me from this blinding light
