"A Long Dusty Road"

A warm sunny day in July, leaving Los Angeles, my motorbike and I, was doin'™ the highway I was looking for the way, to clear my mind up, spinning the wheel to the bone, searching for spaces

At the end of the road, there is my paradise, she is my destiny and she's waiting for me I am leaving work behind, travel with high speed, spinning my wheels home to you, will you be waiting

Day after day, night after night, mile after mile and my soul's getting dry
The long desert road, is bringing me home babe

Day after day, night after night, mile after mile all I see is the sky
The engine cries loud, and it's bringing me home babe

I'm still on the road again, there is no telephone, I wanna call you babe cause it's been so long And my journey never ends, there is no stop'n sign, imagining the sight of you, is feeding my hunger
