All I said was true and now I've got a song for you and there is no regret so maybe you should just forget cause there will be no sleep for lonely ones who've forgotten all that they have done and if I change my mind I'll write it down in a new line but the fact remains that my mind will not be changed

and I find humor in your ignorance you think you're actions have no consequence so can you justify you're criticizing me when it really should be her that you are questioning
