cemetery, break the stone,
mom was right, should have stayed at home.
seems like all the good ol' days are gone.
back and forth, side to side,
a lonely boy, a man's disguise.
another silhouette against the sky.
(Bridge)
overcome the obstacle of animosity.
take it to my old backyard, security and family.
(chorus)
when all is said, and all is done,
i'm not the only one.
when all is said, and all is done.
take it all for granted, i don't mind it's all been handed down to me,
but i'll give it back someday.
once upon a time a tale began on a television,
now i watch it slowly spin away.
(Bridge)
(Chorus)
(keyboard solo)

clean the slate, turn the page, lonely boy has paved the way.
mom was right, i should have stayed at home.
when all is said, and all is done,
i'm not the only one.
when all is said, and all is done,
i'm not the only one.
when all is said, and all is done,
i'm not the only one.
when all is said, and all is done,
seems like all the good ol' days are gone.
