You had it all going for you
Then what, what's this you do?
Tell your teachers you want to quit
Then just leave, you gave up so quick

If you stayed in for the long haul, there you would be
The head of the class for all to see
But you threw it away, on that fatefull day
When you said you didn't have it in you
Now you're just another flunker

Don't give up, theres not much farther
Just keep on trying, just a little bit harder
No stopping along the way, you know you're smarter

I used to look up to your good habits

Now i see you on the streets walking with the bandits
Stealing your way through school
Cause you have nothing else to do

You gave up before you really knew
Now look at the others and all they can do
You should have kept trying
Now you're here hiding
I know you're better than that Cause i followed you, and this is what i've become too.

Don't give up, theres not much farther
Just keep on trying, just a little bit harder
No stopping along the way, you know you're smarter
