trapped alone in this dim room candle light burns so serene and calling you meant nothing well i tried i wrote you this letter thinking you would see all that you mean to me and i hide in my room graceful but unproud your letting go of me i can pretend things are better i can pretend im better off alone and thats where ill stay i lost you forever and you know i never thought it would end this way ive been away for too long just trying to write this song but in the process i got hurt its not getting any better my lifes just so much harder im leaving our love in the past
