tonight i feel so much sympathy within where did you learn to disrespect yourself take control just know that your the one that decides the outcome of your life take off this dead weight thats holding you back realize that you are something more learn from the mistakes in the past life goes on walk through that door let down again i'm sure that you've grown used to the one night stand and now you wonder what you have done wrong as he turns his back, without even caring if these walls could talk just imagine what they'd say how could you waste your life your ruined and it's so dark and it's so cold your head is hanging so low
