What's the problem with the human race?

No matter where I turn I can't escape the double bass

Don't want to listen to the radio or stick around just to hear "I told you so".

There's something funny about you

I should've known better to doubt you

I thought I heard the end of it

Now I know how far you go

To be the next freak show

American Psycho

Cover of the magazines, patron saint for troubled
teens

Wish I'd never heard your name

Thought it could be just another day

A misdemeanor or a felony, that's ok.

Don't wanna wait for a second chance.

It's your turn for the spotlight, the big dance.

There's something funny about you

I should've known better to doubt you

And not "I'd heard the end of it".

Now I know how far you go

To be the next freak show

American Psycho

Cover of the magazines, patron saint for troubled
teens

Wish I'd never heard your name

And they all wanna know

How far you had to go

What am I supposed 2 do

When you know that it's all true

That you stole, that you lie, that you knew.

Primadonna, self absorbed

Wide awake and never bored

Party binge, emergency results of plastic surgery

Spotted at the hottest shows

Interview on Jonny Ro

They all want a piece of you

Now I know how far you go

To be the next freak show

American Psycho

Cover of the magazines, patron saint for troubled
teens

Wish I never knew your name

And they all wanna know

How far you had to go

And I already know

How far you had to go
