Save your breath, don't waste your time

I can tell what's on your mind

No need to mention what we both know

It's quite a time you picked to tell me

It's quiet time and mostly lonely

And now it's time to save the past we know so well

It's not funny

We're not laughing like we did before

And it's not funny

It's just hurting more and more

Take your time to figure out

It's not that plain to see

And if you need someone to blame

Than you can blame it all on me

It's not the time you picked to tell me

It's more the way you want to show me

And that's all fine

It's not funny

We're not laughing like we did before

And it's not funny

It's just hurting more and more

You never told me

You never showed me

And now we're running cack and forth between two lines

And now all the little things are no concern at all

Say what you want,

We know that it's true (all brand new)

Now that we're older now, seems like it's all brand new

And we've never heard it before
