You're dragging me along

I cannot hold it

You say it's what you are

Your staring scares me

Antagonize your fears, your longing

You're setting out your fears, you're falling

I turn my back on you

You're far too clever now

Kareen is calling out her name

She disappeared beneath her pain

But no one's listening

No one's listening

I contradict myself

You did not need it

You gave up from the start

So where's that leave me?

And what I'd like to know is easy

If it's your right, than don't believe me

I turn my back on you

You're far too clever now

Reckless leap to try once more

It's really not that strange

You'll learn to be adored

And not to be ashamed
