There once was a man
Who conquered the world
With just a sword at his side
He wondered a land of magic and lore
When dragons and elves were as one.

I sought the crowning
The princess is drowning now
King Mir is frowning
And magics are bound to now
My steed is prancing
The jester's feet are dancing now
Dark Mages casting casting
Spells for the pheonix now.

There once was a man

Who conquered the world
With just a sword at his side
He wondered a land of magic and lore
When dragons and elves were as one.

Castles are crumbling
Great knights are stumbling now
High Lord is mumbling
Kingdom is falling down
Griffons are fighting
Strong men are lying down
The dutchess is crying crying
Time here's for dying now.
