Seems a shame to leave you here the day so soft and warm

The sun comes through the restless leaves and rolls across the lawn

I finally see the difference now between myself and you

And darlin it just breaks my heart in two

And so I reach for you baby on this day of remembrance and rhyme

Take these words that Im singing, turn em into a raised glass of wine

You know I aint much for ritual but this one makes me cry

So, happy anniversary and goodbye

I hear tell of moving on and somehow it sounds right

Still I long to kiss away the tears from your eyes

And talk about old memories, honey one at a time

Anything to warm this cold, dark heart of mine
