What have you done, my little spark?
Cursing my name 'cause again i put you out
Falling apart, you tell yourself you are Dreaming only of the ones who never dream of you
I'm your disappearing one
Vanish when the curtain's drawn
But i will come again, and you will let me in
And you'll see i never disappear for long
Into your room i stumble now
Too tired to cower, and it's too late to draw you out
And there you lie like a painting of christ
Bleeding on the heads of the ones who nailed you down
I'm your disappearing one
Vanish when the curtain's drawn
And you'll see i never disappear for long
