You call and wake me up the way you always do

Say you miss me and you're sorry, deja vu

You push the button in the heart you know so well

The wall starts comin' down and I remind myself

Chorus:

Everytime I think you might have changed

I put aside the anger and the blame

Make myself believe that there's a way to work it out

Everytime you say let's try again

Beggin' me to let you back in

Everytime I do, everytime you lie

Everytime I cry

If only promises could just erase the past

I could open up my heart enough to take you back

But we've been down this road time and time again

I've learned the hard way how this story always ends

Repeat Chorus twice

Everytime I do, everytime you lie

Everytime I cry
