The war is over
The race is won
Now you left us and now you're gone
But your memory will live on inside our hearts
I guess it's selfish wanting you to stay
I know you'll be watching over me everyday
But still it's not the same
Hearing the news that you had fallen unto sleep
My heart ached
Not understanding why God would take you away from me
And i cried i cried why god why
Why did our family go through this pain
Please help us vanquish it and get on our feet again

Antiquity... Adversity...

Even when you were gone
You joined the family as one
How do we move on?
The question lingered in our minds perpetually
Can't wait to see you next to me
But in the meantime
I'll strive to make you proud of me

Antiquity... Adversity...
