Written by - Jim Croce

How come we can't talk the way we used to do
Nothin' seems to be the same
Have we forgotten all the things we knew
Was it you or I who changed

Chorus:

We've got to find the answer
Let the secrets fly
Enough of telling stories and our well meaning lies

Things don't seem to be the same no matter how I try
There's no rhythm to the rain
Wind still whispers through the leaves on high
But they no longer sing your name

Chorus

We've got to try to build what we had in the past
Tryin's half the battle if we lose it we can't last

Heard myself just say the things I could never say
before
And listened to the rhythm of the rain
Wind just whispered through the leaves on high
And I though I heard them sing your name

We've got to find the answer
Let the secrets fly
Enough of telling stories and our well meaning lies

We've got to try to build what we had in the past
Tryin's half the battle if we lose it we can't last

Heard myself just say the things I could never say
And listened to the rhythm of the rain
Wind just whispered through the leaves on high
And I though I heard them sing your name
And I though I heard them sing your name
