a fist through the wall never solved anything it just worried mom just like the bullets down the barrel of growing up this must be home where mothers abandon their young and fathers are further than the faintest star we are family

we'd return to dust if it meant saving you if it's of any use, lay me beneath your feet and breathe deep these fumes from this machine of healing hearts we built it through the night
we built it through the night

this could be home if son could see what he's done and that mater is closer to a son so far from what we are family

tyler, we'll fight this world together and our own strengths, they also die together but my prayer is that you'll trust God's wings which shelter me because in a world of nothing they are everything

night
we built it through the night
we built it
we built it through the night
