Ok you apologized yeah that's cool
It's like I've seen this over and over again
Back when it started deja vu
This love goes up and down like a rollercoaster
Cause when you did it did it for good
But I should have left when I knew that I could
The bad times outweigh the good
I put my heart on the line
Seems like the sun never shines in the sky
And the rain never clears up and dries
When I've climbed every mountain but still haven't found it
What do I do I start all over again searching for love
Start all over again searching for love
Start all over again I gotta find you one day
Until then I'll be here starting all over again
Let's be honest you never keep a promise
I told you what I wanted but you said you wasn't from it
Let go let go I know that I should let go My mind is playing walk away knowing that I want to stay
Cause when you did it you did it for good
I should've left when I knew that I could
All of the bad times outweigh the good
Putting my heart on the line
Seems like the sun never shines in the sky
And the rain never clears up and dries
When I've climbed every mountain but still haven't
found it
What do I do I start all over again searching for love
Start all over again searching for love
Start all over again I gotta find you one day
Until then I'll be here starting all over again
