Holding it in. On the tip of your tongue.
You're silent to live. And uncomfortably numb.
Try to balance it out. It's so hard to restrain.
You silently shout again and again everyday you awake.

Chorus:

Now you're left with words that can't be said
From the depths you struggle for your breath
Now you're left with words that can't be said
A fight to the death, it's your heart against your head

You need the touch. You're dying to give.
You want it so much. Every chance that you get.

Chorus

In the context of time it's best not to wait
Life passes you by, it's yours to take
These things that you feel, you hide it so well
You keep it so close, so deep inside, so no one can tell

Chorus
